Pioneer Conferencing LLC Introduces Webcasting Capabilities to Existing Platform

New York, NY, 12/15/2006- Pioneer Conferencing LLC, a leading provider of audio and web conferencing services, introduced its new Webcasting feature today. This new functionality is designed to give participants the ability to listen to an audio stream via their computer speakers while participating in a web meeting.

Webcasting is the next step in an effort to make web meetings accessible to large audiences. When conducting a meeting the moderator now has the ability to choose how the meeting is to be delivered. Participants can participate in a fully interactive mode using their phone and computer or they may view the presentation on the computer and listen through their speakers. Scheduling a web conference using the webcasting feature is a one step process and will not vary from traditional protocol.

Pioneer Conferencing LLC is an innovative audio and web conferencing provider offering a full suite of services to the business community. The company offers user-friendly tools effective for use in any environment ranging from small collaborative meetings to large media rich events. Headquartered in New York, NY, Pioneer is rapidly becoming a global leader in the market place, traversing all professional verticals.
